

Modern and Classical Languages - Arabic, Classical Languages, French

Students graduating with a major in Spanish will have a solid understanding of the Spanish language and the ability to use the language effectively in speaking, comprehension, reading, and writing. They will have developed the skills necessary for the study, analysis, and interpretation of a wide range of cultural texts, including literary texts.

The department also offers courses for the non-major to fulfill the Language and Culture component of the core curriculum.

Arabic

ARAB 111 Elementary Arabic I (4 credits)

The first year of elementary Arabic is designed for non-native beginners in the Arabic language to primarily learn the formal form of Arabic also known as Modern Standard Arabic. During the year, students will learn how to express basic communication idioms and needs in Arabic. The year begins with learning the alphabet and progresses into learning how to read elementary level Arabic, writing simple sentences, and speaking basic and introductory idioms. Listening drills and exercises are also practiced in class and in the language lab.

ARAB 112 Elementary Arabic II (4 credits)

Continuation of 111.

ARAB 211 Intermediate Arabic I (4 credits)

Intermediate Arabic I is a continuation of Elementary Arabic II. It is designed to further develop language proficiency in modern standard Arabic in the four language skills. In speaking, the focus is on the use of everyday expressions through discussion and presentations. In reading, the focus is on reading authentic materials from Arabic journals and magazines. Writing is emphasized especially through writing weekly journals and homework assignments. Listening exercises and drills are utilized in class as well as in the language lab by listening and watching audio and video materials. The course is also aimed at familiarizing students with the cultures of the Arab world.

Classical Languages

This major engages students in the study of the languages, literatures and cultures of two ancient cultures that have left a lasting impact upon the modern world: classical Greece and Rome. This major prepares students to read both languages, introduces significant works of essential authors, and provides analytical tools for examining the relationship between language and the unique identity of different cultures.

Major in Classical Languages

A minimum proficiency in each language at the 211-level for a total of 28 credits in Greek and Latin. (see descriptions below under Greek and Latin)

Plus:

Twelve additional credits in Greek or Latin, ancient history, ancient philosophy, classical art, mythology, or classical literature in translation.

Minor in Classical Languages

Twelve credits in Greek (see descriptions below under Greek)

Twelve credits in Latin (see descriptions below under Latin)

French

The primary goal of the department is to provide opportunity to its majors for acquiring:

- A solid command of the French language
- A thorough introduction to the literary and cultural origins of France and the role of French in today's world
- Enough diversity in courses to prepare for a variety of potential careers or possible co-careers for which their French skills will be of primary importance
- The intellectual background which characterizes those educated in a liberal arts setting.

Major in French

Four years of high school French or the completion of Intermediate French II or its equivalent.

Each prospective major will present a program to the major French adviser for departmental approval. Two tracks are allowed: a literary track stressing courses needed for graduate study; and a general track stressing the cultural and communication skills necessary for double, combined or co-career majors. A minimum of 28 credits beyond 212 is required for a French major. At least twelve of these credits must be completed at the University of St. Thomas.

The major normally consists of eight credits in civilization or culture, eight credits in literature, and eight credits in advanced language study (grammar, composition or oral-intensive), plus elective courses at the 300-level or beyond.

Modern and Classical Languages - French

Courses in a second foreign language are highly recommended.

The department strongly encourages all students planning a major in French to spend some time (a summer, a January term, a semester or an academic year) in a French-speaking country and to participate in a French course on campus upon their return.

German

The department strives to offer a diversified program capable of accommodating a variety of student interests and professional goals connected with German studies. The aims of the department are:

1. To give a command of the German language for use in professional and academic life
2. To acquaint students with the history, literature and culture of the German-speaking countries
3. To familiarize students with the role these countries and their culture play in the world today.

Lectures, reports, and discussion in courses numbered above 300 will be conducted in German.

Major in German

Completion of GERM 212 or its equivalent

GERM 300 Introduction to German Studies (4 credits)

Plus:

Twenty-four additional credits numbered above GERM 300

At least six of these 28 credits must be literature courses.

At least twelve of these 28 credits must be completed at the University of St. Thomas.

No more than twelve credits may be in the area of advanced language skills development.

Elective courses for the major in German should be selected in consultation with a member of the German faculty.

Plus:

Four credits in European history

Recommended:

Courses in a second foreign language.

The department strongly urges all students planning to major in German to spend some time, usually one semester, studying in a German-speaking country. See a member of the German faculty for information on study-abroad opportunities for St. Thomas students in Germany or Austria.
