

How a CEO and a Lawyer Became Felons: Two Inside Stories of White Collar Crime

A Talk with Former Prosecutors and Offenders

When: Wednesday, October 15, 2008
8:30 – 9:45 a.m.

Where: Law School, Stuart Hall Room 403

Cast: Hank Shea, former federal prosecutor in Minnesota, Senior Distinguished Fellow at the University of St. Thomas School of Law's Center for Ethical Leadership in the Professions

Richard Juliano, a former lawyer and key aide to former Illinois Governor George Ryan, convicted of mail fraud related to Ryan's corrupt political activities

David Logan, a former CEO of a Minnesota corporation who served almost five years in federal prison for fraud and bribery

Moderator: Professor Paul R. Tremblay

These speakers are traveling the country sharing their all-too-real insights about professionals and white collar crime. They will have appeared together at Harvard Law School on October 14th. This unique presentation on the intersection of law practice, business practice, and ethics is open to students from the Law School, the Carroll School of Management, and any other interested members of the Boston College community.