The Luann Dummer Center for Women was established in 1993 by a special bequest from Dr. Luann Dummer’s Estate. Dr. Dummer came to UST in 1971 and influenced the lives of hundreds of students and faculty during her 21 years as a professor.

Dr. Dummer was known for her wisdom, energy, and determination. A strong feminist, she helped develop the St. Thomas Women’s Studies program and served as its first director. Through her bequest to establish a center for women at St. Thomas, Dr. Dummer leaves an enduring legacy.

The Luann Dummer Center for Women is pleased to offer several grant opportunities for faculty, staff and students. Information for all grants and awards is available in the Center, room 103 OEC or check out website at www.stthomas.edu/LDCW:

- Leadership Grant

Faculty, staff, and students are welcome to use the Center for a multitude of purposes. The space boasts a quiet, relaxing atmosphere perfect for studying. In addition, the LDCW is an excellent place to hold group meetings, whether it be students, staff, or faculty. The warm atmosphere is one of the best kept secrets on campus!

One of the major assets of the Center is the art collection. There is a great story behind each piece, and all are encouraged to visit the Center to take a look at all of the wonderful pieces. Each were either purchased by the Center or they were donated.

The Luann Dummer Center for Women is open most weekdays from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., allowing for ample opportunity to utilize the space. For more information on Center hours or to reserve the space for a group meeting, please contact (651) 962-6119.
