Field Instructors: Social Work Agency Staff

II. REQUIRED COURSE TEXTS:

MSW Field Education Manual, 2009-2011

Two books or equivalent articles as assigned by agency field instructor and faculty field liaison. At least one book or equivalent articles must include reports of current research.

III. COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The field practicum is an educationally directed on-site experience under the supervision of an agency based social work field instructor and a campus based faculty liaison. Students complete a total of 400 hours during the first practicum. On-campus seminars (I and II) taken concurrently with the practicum assist the student in the integration and application of practice theory to their placement learning activities. The first practicum is taken concurrently with GRSW 501 and GRSW 502: Theory and Practice of Social Work I and II.

IV. COURSE OBJECTIVES:

The purpose of the foundation MSW field practicum is to provide a practical field experience in a social work agency, institution and/or department. This experience is intended to complement the student's academic work by allowing the opportunity to apply generalist knowledge and theory to actual social work situations. The social work student will be expected to perform social work responsibilities under supervision of the field instructor. A central feature to the overall process is the sharing of experiences with other students in fieldwork seminars held on campus.

The fieldwork and seminar components will enable and support each student to:

- Understand structure and functions of agencies and communities and social work's role in them
- Understand social work ethics and values and develop professional identity
- Develop self-awareness and communication skills to guide professional practice
- Practice generalist social work skills
- Utilize supervision and evaluate practice

A. Knowledge of the following:

1. The structure and function of resource and delivery systems within the field agency and the community.
2. The field agency in terms of its history, philosophy, programs, client population, funding and organizational structure.
3. The field agency's organizational dynamics.
4. The role of social work in the agency and its function in interdisciplinary teams.
5. The social worker's role in terms of professional ethics, supervision, confidentiality and accountability to client systems.

VII. COURSE POLICIES:

- A. Attendance: Attendance and participation in field seminar is required. Students who are absent more than once a semester are required to complete an additional assignment. Lateness may be counted as partial absences. Students with more than two absences may be dropped from the course. Students must turn in end of the semester paperwork (evaluations and statistical reports), completed and with signatures, to receive their final grades.
- B. Grading & Evaluation: Field Practicum and Seminar is graded on a Pass/No Credit basis. This grade is assigned by the field liaison based on verbal and written feedback of performance in field from field instructor and student, and on performance in seminar groups and on seminar assignments.

1. A contracting conference is scheduled at the agency just following agency orientation and includes the student, the field instructor(s), and the faculty liaison. The contract form (due on date in calendar) is reviewed, discussed, and revised, enabling all parties to clearly articulate the learning objectives, the strategies for meeting them, and the means by which they will be assessed.
2. Ongoing evaluation should take place during regularly scheduled supervision sessions between the student and the field instructor.
3. A first semester evaluation is completed at the completion of 1st semester hours (Form is available online at UST). Additional three-way conferences (including the faculty liaison) may be scheduled as needed.
4. Final evaluation forms are completed by the student and the field instructor jointly and are then submitted to the faculty supervisor prior to a final conference held at the agency. This meeting's purpose is to review the student's progress and growth opportunities, as well as to provide feedback to the agency and to the school to improve field supervision and education.

C. Classroom accommodations:

Classroom accommodations will be provided for qualified students with documented disabilities. Students are required to contact the Enhancement Program at the University of St. Thomas and Resources for Disabilities at St. Catherine University about accommodations for their courses within the first two weeks of the term. Appointments can be made at the Enhancement Program by calling 651-962-6315 or the Resources for Disabilities office at 651-690-6563. For further information you can locate the Enhancement Program on the web at <http://www.stthomas.edu/enhancementprog/> and Resources for Disabilities at <http://minerva.stkate.edu/offices/academic/oneill.nsf>.

D. Pandemic Policy:

The School of Social Work is committed to a healthy campus community. During the 2009-2010 academic year, there will be ongoing concerns regarding the prevalence among university faculty, staff and students of both the H1N1 virus and seasonal influenza. To help limit the spread of these illnesses, the Center for Disease Control has provided college campuses the following recommendation: students, faculty, or staff with influenza like illnesses (temperature of 100.0 or greater, plus a cough or sore throat) are directed to self-isolate (or stay home) for at least 24 hours after their fever is gone without the use of fever-reducing medicine. In the event that MSW students are unable to attend classes due to this self-isolation recommendation, they should consult the university's pandemic web site <http://www.stthomas.edu/pandemic/plan/default.html> and complete an on-line form informing professors of their absence. In accordance, faculty will provide opportunities for these students to participate in alternative educational delivery due to this illness.

- E. Informed Consent Policy: students should familiarize themselves with the Informed Consent Policy located in the MSW Field Education Manual.

VIII. SEMINAR ASSIGNMENTS:

Students will take an active role in shaping the seminar. Full participation in this class is also necessary for the benefit of yourself and your group members. Many social work agencies make use of a team model of interaction to support workers as a consultative and educational tool. Professional standards of respect and appropriate interaction are expected of all seminar members. Providing attentive support and feedback to others are also standards of professional behavior and desirable for an effective and enriching seminar.

Fall Semester:

Initial Self-Assessment: In 2-3 pages, analyze your strengths and challenges as you begin your placement, in terms of: self-awareness, communication skills, comfort and confidence with social work direct practice, use of supervision, and use of seminar group. Be prepared to discuss what is comfortable in seminar.

Agency Presentation: Using a poster board, create a poster display of your agency, to be presented to the seminar. Include the following information in some format on the board, and be prepared to present all of the following information to the seminar.

- Name of agency
- Brief history of agency
- Agency mission; social & economic justice issues addressed
- Agency funding sources
- Agency structure: board, administration, types of staff & roles
- Place of social work in agency structure, role of social worker
- Community served, include services to diverse and at-risk populations

Exploring Diversity: Students will be asked to examine their own diversity, that of their clients and the impact of culture and belief systems on professional practice. Detailed assignment will be handed out in seminar.

Journal Writing: Professional self-awareness is a critical component to ethical practice and self care. As a means to facilitate this process, students are expected to journal on a weekly basis on a focused topic. At times specific questions will be assigned, however, use the questions below as a guide. Please bring journals to seminar to assist in discussions. Journals will be turned in once a semester.

What personal issues affect your work? What are you learning about your style? Your vocation? How is your participation in seminar working? How are you using your strengths and challenges? What value differences are you working with? What ethical dilemmas have you encountered?

How do you handle stress and get personal support? What was the high, or low, point this week at your placement? How do you better understand culture, risk, race, gender, class, justice, social work roles? What skills (communication, assertiveness, negotiation, organization, etc) are you aware of using or refining? What is your comfort with generalist theories and interventions?

Assess your relationship with your supervisor. Analyze your relationship with your supervisor in terms of your similarities and differences in 1) styles of support and learning, 2) view of your level of independence/readiness, and also reflect on and discuss: 3) your use of supervision, 4) the balance of task and process in supervisory sessions and 5) the level of trust developing and its impact on supervision.

Spring Semester:

Agency analysis: In order to assess your understanding of your agency's policies and their impact on clients, reflect on the following questions and discuss in class:

- How are policies and programs evaluated? How have they changed over time?
- How effective is this agency in responding to pertinent issues of social & economic injustice and meeting needs of at-risk populations?
- How effective is this agency in meeting the needs of diverse populations?
- How well do you see generalist practice principles in place?

Client/Topic Presentation Choose a client (or family, group or topic area) and in your presentation include: 1) relevant introductory information (do not use actual names or other identifying information) 2) assessment of client's strengths, risk factors, and goals; 3) impact on client of agency procedures, policies, services; 4) analysis of developing professional relationship between client and student, including issues of diversity in terms of class, race, gender, age; 5) identification of theories informing assessment and interventions; 6) identification of the most important ethical issues involved and 7) present the class a question for consultation.

Process recording: Complete a process recording. Share your process recording with your field supervisor for his/her comments and hand in to your faculty liaison. We will discuss process recordings at the beginning of Spring Semester.

Professional development: In the classroom, discuss what you have learned about yourself during this placement: How do you evaluate your strengths and challenges differently than at the beginning? How would you describe your current understanding of yourself as a social worker (your role, purpose, style, vocation)? What do you need to do to take the next step in your professional development?

Journal Writing: Professional self-awareness is a critical component to ethical practice and self care. As a means to facilitate this process, students are expected to journal on a weekly basis on a focused topic. At times, specific questions will be assigned. 3 journal entries will be expected to be turned in and one of those will be shared with the class. Please bring journals to seminar to assist in discussions.
