Sociology Major/Minor Advising Guide

The Sociology program offers a major and minor in sociology. The Sociology major offers a quality liberal arts experience. Coursework introduces students to the discipline of sociology and provides in-depth knowledge of theories and methods. Elective courses within the major allow students to explore areas of interest within sociology. Students must take ten (10) courses for the major and five (5) courses for a minor.

Double Majoring in Sociology and Criminal Justice: The Department of Justice & Society Studies also offers both a major and minor in criminal justice. Students choosing to double major in sociology and criminal justice are limited to five (5) courses that can be applied to both majors: SOCI 100, 210, 220 and two of the following 312, 344, or 346.

Combining a Sociology major with a Criminal Justice minor: May not share more than 8 credits.

Sociology and Psychology Double Majors: Students with a double major in sociology and psychology who complete SOCI 210, PSYC 212, and STAT 220 may receive a waiver for SOCI 220 by contacting the department chair.
