

Recognizing and Supporting Students in Crisis

FOR EMERGENCIES, CONCERNS OR CRISIS

Where do I start?

If you are concerned about a student, don't let uncertainty stop you from taking action. The University of St. Thomas is committed to supporting students in crisis. This guide was developed to help you Recognize, Respond to, Refer and Report concerning student behavior. For additional information, talk to your supervisor, department chair, or contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050.

Responding to Students in Crisis

Stay safe

When a student displays threatening or potentially violent behavior, your safety, the student's safety and the welfare of the campus community are the top priorities. Coordinated professional help and follow-up care are effective ways to help prevent suicide and violence.

Weigh your concerns

If you are concerned about a student, consult your department chair, supervisor and/or the Dean of Students Office. Promptly report safety concerns and Student Conduct Code violations.

De-escalate and support

Distressed students can be sensitive. Avoid threatening, potentially embarrassing or intimidating statements. Help students connect with the resources they need.

Clarify expectations

Set early limits on disruptive or self-destructive behavior. Remind students verbally or in writing (e.g., in the syllabus) of standards/expectations for conduct, and of possible consequences for disruptive behavior. Refer to the online Student Conduct Code at www.stthomas.edu/policies.

Listen sensitively and carefully

Vulnerable students need to be heard and supported. They may find it difficult to articulate their distress. Ask them directly if they feel their functioning is impaired or if they have thoughts of harming themselves or others.

Share what you know

State and federal laws and university policies mandate reporting in many crisis situations. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) allows faculty and staff to report student health and safety concerns to relevant campus offices trained to handle situations with sensitivity and care. Taking appropriate action does not violate a student's privacy.

Consult to coordinate a timely response

Consult with appropriate university personnel to coordinate care for the student. Always report serious or persistent behavior to the Dean of Students Office as soon as possible. Misconduct may be formally addressed through the student conduct process and additional campus resources may be necessary to help reduce or eliminate disruptive behaviors.

Follow up

Once you have referred a student in crisis, it is helpful (but not obligatory) for you to follow-up in their ongoing care. Your firsthand knowledge and personal connection to this student is valuable in understanding and appropriately responding to their situation.

Take care

Supporting students in crisis can take a toll on your personal well-being. Make sure to acknowledge what you've been through and receive adequate support.

"If you see something, say something"

Maintaining Compliance with State and Federal Laws and University Policies

Academic Integrity Policy

University of St. Thomas' Academic Integrity Policy applies to all undergraduate and graduate students participating in academic classes, programs and research projects offered by the university, including online and distance learning. For more information, training and support, contact Office of Academic Affairs at (651) 962-6717.

University Alcohol and Drug Policies

Students are responsible for adhering to the university's alcohol and other drug policies, which conform to state and federal laws and enhance the health, safety and educational interests of our community. For more information, training and support, contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050.

Weapons Policy

The University of St. Thomas is committed to providing a safe and secure learning, working and living environment. This policy prohibits the possession and use of weapons on campus and in connection with St. Thomas employment. This policy applies to all St. Thomas students, employees (faculty, staff and student workers), contractors, volunteers, visitors and licensees. For more information, training and support, contact the Department of Public Safety at (651) 962-5100.

Non-Discrimination and Anti-Harassment Policy

The University of St. Thomas continually strives to meet the highest standards of respect and civility that are both implicit and explicit in its vision, mission and convictions. It is the university's goal that no member of the university community shall be subject to any physical or verbal harassment, abuse or violence based on the individual's race, color, gender, sexual orientation, age, national origin, religion or physical or mental disability. The value placed upon human dignity and diversity should be interpreted as augmenting, not infringing upon "freedom of expression" or "academic freedom." As a result, the university has adopted a policy designed to investigate and resolve such claims in a direct and thorough manner while respecting the rights of all parties involved. For more information, training and support, contact the Office for Diversity and Inclusion at (651) 962-5200. Report Bias Incidents online: stthomas.edu/deanofstudents/bias-reporting/.

Student Leave of Absence Policy

This policy is intended to support students who might benefit from pausing their education. Moreover, this policy provides the university with the ability to protect the safety and well-being of the community by removing students whose behaviors indicate a risk to themselves or the community. This policy does not replace existing academic performance, student conduct, or dismissal policies maintained by academic units or the Dean of Students Office. For more information, training and support, contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050.

Title IX

Subject to exceptions that apply to counselors, clinicians or, in limited circumstances, clergy, any St. Thomas employee who becomes aware of a potential incident of sexual assault, sexual harassment, dating or domestic violence, stalking, sexual exploitation, or other assault or harassment involving a student at the University of St. Thomas - either as alleged victim or perpetrator - on or off campus must promptly report the matter to an "Official with Authority": generally, the Title IX Coordinator. Online reporting and information about what University employees are Officials with Authority is available at stthomas.edu/title-ix. The person who becomes aware of the incident and is making the report should not investigate the matter. The Title IX Coordinator or designee will address the concern in accordance with University policies and processes and as appropriate under the circumstances. For details see stthomas.edu/title-ix. For more information, training and support, contact the Title IX Coordinator at (651) 962-6882 or title-ix@stthomas.edu.

Clery Act

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act is the federal law originally known as the Campus Security Act that requires universities to disclose information about crime on and around their campuses. The law is tied to federal financial aid program funding and is enforced by the United States Department of Education. A copy of St. Thomas' annual security report is available at stthomas.edu/public-safety/crime-reporting/security-authority. It includes campus security policies, crime statistics for the previous three years, daily crime logs and timely missing student warnings. For more information, training and support, contact UST Public Safety at (651) 962-5100.

Family Educational Rights & Privacy Act (FERPA)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a federal law that allows present and former students access to their educational records and provides basic privacy protection. Educational records are defined as those directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency or institution. FERPA permits disclosure of personal identifiable information from a student's educational record to parents, police or others to protect the health and safety of the student or other individuals. Information can be shared with University personnel when there is a specific need to know. Observations of a student's conduct or statements made by a student are not part of a student's educational record and should be appropriately shared. For more information, training and support, contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050 or the University Registrar at (651) 962-6700.

Government/Law Enforcement Investigations

If you are contacted by law enforcement or a government official seeking a student, student records or other University information, please contact Public Safety (law enforcement) or the Office of General Counsel (other matters). The Office of General Counsel or Public Safety will serve as the university's main point of contact for the investigation/law enforcement matter and will help ensure compliance with legal obligations, including FERPA and any applicable search warrant or subpoena.
