

Undergraduate Student Government (USG) FAQs

1. What is the Undergraduate Student Government?

The Undergraduate Student Government (USG) is dedicated to advocating student concerns. Comprised of 40 representatives from student organizations and each class, the USG council members work with faculty, staff, administration, and other students to promote positive change and foster the St. Thomas identity.

2. How do I get involved in Student Government?

The Undergraduate Student Government (USG) has many opportunities for new and returning students to get involved. USG will host elections for our First-Year positions and any remaining open positions in the early fall.

3. How can I find out more about USG?
