German language & culture through Feature-Films

Germ 211.L02 integrates German full-length feature films and film clips with cultural information at the intermediate language level.

The course is designed to review and expand your knowledge of German language and to extend your comprehension and communicative abilities in the language.

Through authentic German-language films, we will cover cultural-societal and historical topics ranging from family and school to the Third Reich and the Cold War.

The films provide stimulating topics for discussion and opportunities to learn vocabulary and grammatical structures in context.
