Q6 Do you live with a roommate, partner or family member?
- Current Law Student

Q7 If yes, how many people do you live with?  1

Q8 If you live with a roommate, how did you find your current roommate?
Facebook page for admitted/incoming students - asked if anyone needed a roommate and posted some pictures of myself and my living style.

Q9 Do you share housing costs with a roommate, partner or family member?  Roommate

Q10 Are you living with any young children?  No

Q11 Are you living with a pet(s)?
Yes,
If so, please indicate how this impacted your housing search/selection.:
I specifically said I wanted to find someone who either was okay with pets or had a pet also since I have a cat and so we found apartments that specifically allowed pets.

Q12 How do you commute to St. Thomas Law?  I walk to/from school

Q13 How did you find your current housing situation?  Apartment Search provider
Q14 Did you live in your current housing prior to starting law school?
No

Q15 What advice would you give an incoming student?

Living right next to campus is very expensive but in my opinion worth it for the first year. I plan on moving further away and spending less on rent for the next two years but it has been awesome and a great way to make sure you are able to go to school events, be able to grab things you forgot at home, and not worry about weather or downtown traffic to get to school.

Q16 Are there any resources or options you wish were available to help find housing?

More like a compiled list of where people have lived (specifically) and costs and roommates.

Q17 Please provide any comments you think would be helpful for incoming students regarding your current housing/neighborhood, or other housing options you think they should explore.

I live at One Ten Grant right now. I have a cat and my roommate has a dog. We each pay right around $1000/month for rent but lots of utilities are included, they threw in free garage parking when we were being wishy washy about signing the lease, the staff is very friendly, the apartments are quite nice, it is very close to school, and at least six or seven other law students also live in the building. Other popular options for apartment buildings near campus are: Anything in Laurel Village, Bolero Flats, LaSalle Apartments, and then a bunch of smaller more independently owned apartments around campus.

Q17 Please provide any comments you think would be helpful for incoming students regarding your current housing/neighborhood, or other housing options you think they should explore.
Personally, I like living in Laurel Village because it is one of the most affordable options in the downtown area, but it still has many amenities. Also, being right on Hennepin Ave. feels a bit safer to me than being in the Loring Park neighborhood, although I know there are many students who live in Loring Park.

Q15 What advice would you give an incoming student?
You gotta be flexible. Be sure to know your extreme study habits and coordinate around that. Being way out in the suburbs can be really good for a lot of people. Be open to any location in the Twin Cities. There are a lot of options.
Q16 Are there any resources or options you wish were available to help find housing?

Maybe more information on how transit can pair with certain locations.

Q17 Please provide any comments you think would be helpful for incoming students regarding your current housing/neighborhood, or other housing options you think they should explore.

West St. Paul and the East metro generally is over looked. The cost is low but if you want to be social in your home with other law students it can be prohibitive. I lived in St. Louis Park and that was very convenient. I’d also recommend looking at Eagan.

Q13 How did you find your current housing situation?  Apartment Search provider
Q14 Did you live in your current housing prior to starting law school? No

Q15 What advice would you give an incoming student?
Don't be afraid of biking. Minneapolis bicycle infrastructure is among the best in the nation. Local bike shops host winter riding expos, and they can get you set up to ride comfortably even during the coldest months. It's less expensive than parking/car payments/gas, more convenient than figuring out parking, and you are guaranteed to stretch your legs and move your body at least twice a day.

Q16 Are there any resources or options you wish were available to help find housing? Respondent skipped this question

Q17 Please provide any comments you think would be helpful for incoming students regarding your current housing/neighborhood, or other housing options you think they should explore.
Spring and summer are just awful for finding good housing. If at all possible, search for housing November through March… you could even consider short-term housing to make it through the first few months. I've found that there is better value in the market and landlords are more responsive when you're not fighting the crush of undergrads and other people looking for housing.

Q15 What advice would you give an incoming student?

If you come from a big city, don't be afraid to rent in the "bad parts" of town. It's a city like any other. It's still the midwest. You can handle it. Also, it's cheaper.

Q16 Are there any resources or options you wish were available to help find housing?

A moving bud, to check a place out for you to make sure you aren't falling for a scam.

Q12 How do you commute to St. Thomas Law? I drive and park in the UST ramp, I take the UST Shuttle from St. Paul

Q13 How did you find your current housing situation? Friend or Family member

Q14 Did you live in your current housing prior to starting law school? No

Q15 What advice would you give an incoming student?
Don't live in Minneapolis. St. Paul has better housing for lower costs, the area has a nice neighborhood feel, and the public transportation/UST shuttle make it easy to get to Minneapolis regardless of weather.

Q16 Are there any resources or options you wish were available to help find housing?
Yes, the options I saw from the school's website were apartments right in downtown Minneapolis. They were completely unrealistic for a student budget, and didn't account for people who want a different lifestyle than downtown provides.
