

Recognizing and Helping Students in Crisis

Where do I start?

If you are concerned about a student, don't let uncertainty stop you from taking action. The University of St. Thomas is committed to supporting students in crisis. This guide was developed to help you Recognize, Respond to, Refer and Report troubling student behavior. For additional information, talk to your supervisor or department chair and contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050.

Actively caring for each other and our community

Responding to Students in Crisis

Stay safe

When a student displays threatening or potentially violent behavior, your safety, the student's safety and the welfare of the campus community are the top priorities. Coordinated professional help and follow-up care are effective ways to prevent suicide and violence.

Trust your instincts

If you are concerned about a student, consult your department chair, supervisor and/or the Dean of Students Office. Promptly report safety concerns and Student Code of Conduct violations.

De-escalate and support

Distressed students can be sensitive. Avoid threatening, potentially embarrassing or intimidating statements. Help students connect with the resources they need.

Clarify expectations

Set early limits on disruptive or self-destructive behavior. Remind students verbally or in writing (e.g., in the syllabus) of standards/expectations for conduct, and of possible consequences for disorderly behavior. Refer to the online Student Policy Book at www.stthomas.edu/ policies.

Listen sensitively and carefully

Vulnerable students need to be heard and helped. They may find it difficult to articulate their distress. Ask directly if they feel their functioning is impaired or if they have thoughts of harming themselves or others.

Share what you know

State and federal laws and university policies mandate reporting in many crisis situations. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) allows faculty and staff to report student health and safety concerns to relevant campus offices trained to handle situations with sensitivity and care. Taking appropriate action does not violate a student's privacy.

Consult to coordinate a timely response

Consult with appropriate university personnel to coordinate care for the student. Always report serious or persistent behavior to the Dean of Students Office as soon as possible. Misconduct may be formally addressed through the student conduct process and additional campus resources may be necessary to help reduce or eliminate disruptive behaviors.

Follow up

Once you have referred a student in crisis, it is helpful (but not obligatory) for you to follow-up in their ongoing care. Your firsthand knowledge and personal connection to this student is valuable in understanding and appropriately responding to their situation.

Take care

Helping a troubled student can take a toll on your personal well-being. Make sure to acknowledge what you've been through and receive adequate support.

Maintaining Compliance with State and Federal Laws and University Policies

Academic Integrity Policy

University of St. Thomas' Academic Integrity Policy applies to all undergraduate and graduate students participating in academic classes, programs and research projects offered by the university, including online and distance learning. The policy can be found at www.stthomas.edu/policies/undergraduate/disciplinaryrightsandprocedures.

For more information, training and support, contact the Office of Academic Affairs at (651) 962-6717

Student Policy Book

All University of St. Thomas students are responsible for complying with the rules, regulations, policies, and procedures contained in the Student Policy Book, as well as those in other official University communications. The Student Policy Book, Residence Life regulations and other administrative policies impacting students are available at www.stthomas.edu/policies.

For more information, training and support, contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050

Behavioral Leave Policy

This policy is designed for situations in which a student's behavior indicates a direct threat to the health and/or safety of self or others. The university reserves the right to remove a student by requesting or requiring a student to take a leave of absence from the university for behavioral reasons. For details, see www.stthomas.edu/media/studentpolicies/pdf/BehavioralLeaveofAbsenceandReadmission.pdf.

For more information, training and support, contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050

Policy on Hate Crimes and Bias-Motivated Incidents:

The University of St. Thomas continually strives to meet the highest standards of respect and civility that are both implicit and explicit in its vision, mission and convictions. It is the university's goal that no member of the university community shall be subject to any physical or verbal harassment, abuse or violence based on the individual's race, color, gender, sexual orientation, age, national origin, religion or physical or mental disability. The value placed upon human dignity and diversity should be interpreted as augmenting, not infringing upon "freedom of expression" or "academic freedom." As a result, the university has adopted a policy that is designed to investigate and resolve such claims in a direct and thorough manner while respecting the rights of all parties involved. For details, see www.stthomas.edu/policies/general

For more information, training and support, contact the Office for Diversity and Inclusion at (651) 962-6951

University Alcohol and Drug Policies

Students are responsible for adhering to the university's alcohol and other drug policies, which conform to state and federal laws and enhance the health, safety and educational interests of our community. University Alcohol and Drug Policies are available at www.stthomas.edu/policies/undergraduate/policiesandguidelines/alcoholanddrugs

For more information, training and support, contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050

Title IX

Subject to exceptions that can apply to counselors, clinicians or, in limited circumstances, clergy, any St. Thomas employee who becomes aware of a potential incident of sexual assault, sexual harassment, relationship violence or other assault or harassment involving a student at the University of St. Thomas – either as victim or perpetrator – on or off campus must promptly report the matter either to the Dean of Students Office, Public Safety, or the Title IX Coordinator. The person making the report to the Dean of Students Office should not attempt to investigate the matter. The Dean of Students

Office will investigate the concern in accordance with University policy and as appropriate under the circumstances and take every precaution to ensure privacy. For details see www.stthomas.edu/title-ix.

For more information, training and support, contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050

Clery Act

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act is the federal law originally known as the Campus Security Act that requires universities to disclose information about crime on and around their campuses. The law is tied to federal financial aid program funding and is enforced by the United States Department of Education. A copy of St. Thomas' annual security report is available at www.stthomas.edu/publicsafety/securityact. It includes campus security policies, crime statistics for the previous three years, daily crime logs and timely missing student warnings.

For more information, training and support, contact the UST Department of Public Safety at (651) 962-5100

Family Educational Rights & Privacy Act (FERPA)

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a federal law that allows present and former students access to their educational records and provides basic privacy protection. Educational records are defined as those directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency or institution. FERPA permits disclosure of personal identifiable information from a student's educational record to parents, police or others to protect the health and safety of the student or other individuals. Information can be shared with University personnel when there is a specific need to know. Observations of a student's conduct or statements made by a student are not part of a student's educational record and should be appropriately shared.

For more information, training and support, contact the Dean of Students Office at (651) 962-6050 or the University Registrar at (651) 962-6700
